

« Be doers of the Word, and not merely hearers who deceive themselves. »
(Jas 1:22)

«Let's fall in love with the Gospel, Living it to the point that it transforms us and overflows onto others. [...]

«We will experience firsthand what it means to be liberated from ourselves, from our limitations. (...) We'll see the revolution of love that Jesus, who is now free to live within us, will make explode in the world around us.» [1].

"This is how I would like you to be: boys and girls who teach the Gospel to others. The more you share the Gospel with other people, the more you absorb it yourselves. It will become your rule of life. It will bring about the revolution of the Good News, first of all in yourselves, and then in many other people!"

«(...) Whoever sees you should say: "There's another little Jesus going through the world"»[2].

Let's look around us and do all we can to put ourselves at the service of those in need, with small or big gestures of love, peace and reconciliation..

"In my class there is a girl who used to constantly make fun of me and say bad things to me. One day I remembered what Jesus said: "Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you..." (Lk 6:27) and I understood that I had to love her in concrete ways.

She started to change and I realized that it was worth the effort to always act like this, because the new world that we want to see has to start right where we are, by making everything "new" in our own place. Now there are several of us in my class who have started to help one another."

A. Germania

[1] Chiara Lubich, Word of Life, September 2006.

[2] From the book, "Chiara Lubich to the Gen 3" (Italian only), Rome, 1979, pp. 63-64.

« Be doers of the Word, and not merely hearers who deceive themselves. »

(Jas 1:22)

Let's fall in love with the Gospel, Living it to the point that it transforms us and overflows onto others. [...]

"This is how I would like you to be: boys and girls who teach the Gospel to others. The more you share the Gospel with other people, the more you absorb it yourselves. It will become, your rule of life. It will bring about the revolution of the Good News, first of all in yourselves, and then in many other people!"

«We will experience firsthand what it means to be liberated from ourselves, from our limitations. (...) We'll see the revolution of love that Jesus, who is now free to live within us, will make explode in the world around us.» [1].

Let's look around us and do all we can to put ourselves at the service of those in need, with small or big gestures of mutual love, peace and reconciliation..

She started to change and I realized that it was worth the effort to always act like this, because the new world that we want to see has to start right where we are, by making everything "new" in our own place. Now there are several of us in my class who have started to help one another."

A. Germania

"In my class there is a girl who used to constantly make fun of me and say bad things to me. One day I remembered what Jesus said: "Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you..." (Lk 6:27) and I understood that I had to love her in concrete ways.

«(...) Whoever sees you should say: "There's another little Jesus going through the world"»[2].

[1] Chiara Lubich, Word of Life, September 2006.

[2] From the book, "Chiara Lubich to the Gen 3" (Italian only), Rome, 1979, pp. 63-64.

